

Editor's Note

This double issue, 2022-2023 has finally been produced by the effort and interest of the authors. The contributors for the evaluations, who followed the editorial policy and put interest in good opinions, have raised the quality of the journal. For different reasons, but partly specific to the Journal of Local Public Economics, but also due to external effects, including the change of pace caused by COVID-19, issue 2021 was not published. This double issue consists of five regular articles, a dossier and an acknowledgement of the work of our late friend and collaborator Luis Fernando Cabrera Castellanos.
